

The Cat's Meow! Okeechobee City Hall Celebrates 100 Years in Style

Well, slap our knees and call us flappers! The City of Okeechobee is rollin' out the red carpet and inviting the whole gang to a roaring good time at the City Hall 100-Year Building Celebration and Festival on Friday, November 13, 2026, from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

That's right, folks! Our beloved City Hall is turning 100, and we're ready to celebrate this grand occasion with a little jazz, a lot of hometown pride, and all the charm of the Roaring Twenties!

For a century, this historic landmark has been at the heart of local government, serving the good people of Okeechobee through generations of change, growth, and community spirit. Now, it's time to tip our hats to the past and celebrate 100 years of history, service, and memories.

So, dust off those dancing shoes, straighten your suspenders, grab your favorite flapper, and get ready for a family-friendly, 1920s-themed celebration that promises to be the bee's knees! Whether you're a longtime resident or the new kid on the block, everyone is welcome to join the festivities and celebrate the history that makes Okeechobee such a swell place to call home.
